

Regarding: Divorce Mediation

Thank you for your call this afternoon about divorce mediation. It takes courage to make the call and I think you made the right move to explore your options and see what we can do for you.

Mediation is a very good process for completing a divorce with less cost, time, and overall stress than traditional litigation. It also gives you the opportunity to develop a settlement that is tailored to your family, and it makes sense for everyone.

You may want to take a look at our website for how to prepare for mediation www.boicecounseling.com.

Because mediation is a new concept for some people, we offer a PowerPoint mediation orientation for people who are considering using our services. (To find Presentations enter www.slideshare.net -key word "Don Boice").The PowerPoint lasts about (10-15) minutes and since it is self-help, you can go over it as often as you need. If you need our assistance in deciding how to approach your spouse about mediation, please let us know.

I will send you a bunch of paperwork to review, so that you have it at the ready. Some people read it all right away and others get overwhelmed by that. Do what works for you.

Sincerely,
Don Boice
